A Dual Console Paragon

The Freedom 415 is a luxury bowrider that demonstrates Grady White's engineering prowess. Experiencing the 415 is more like a streamlined cabin cruiser.

Elegant details in design accompany an unsinkable construction and the SeaV² hull design, acknowledged for a softer ride. GW promotes this combination to offer the softest, driest, and safest ride, making a play for best in its class.

Exceptional Fishability and Versatility

With a beam of 13 feet and 8 inches, the Freedom 415 offers an expansive cockpit area complemented by dual side doors for boarding on both sides.

The boat has dual 35-gallon live wells and a massive 459-quart refrigerated/freezer box just in front of the transom for ample storage. This space is great for fishing and entertaining, capable of easily repurposing from fishing to entertaining.

Good rod storage also means easily stowing the rods away to prepare the catch for dinner. What's apparent when you feel the contours of the furniture, the hinges on the livewells and the stone of the table tops is that this is not a boat that cuts corners on quality.

Luxurious Comfort and Amenities

The large cockpit transitions into a luxurious haven of comfort with features like an elegant wet bar with a stone countertop that requires no maintenance. An electric bar cupboard adds to the premium feel of the wetbar area and ability for hosts and guests to luxuriate in the Grady White attention to detail.

In front of the livewells is Grady White's patented flip up bench that faces forward in the large cockpit, where up to 8 people can comfortably socialize.

A two-person sofa facing aft has more than ergonomically sound angles and cushioning. It has vents to blow conditioned air on the backs of loungers. It's an impression of subtle decadence threaded through and through.

On this comfortable sofa, we imagine sitting under a shaded canopy in the cockpit, with cool air blowing on our backs as we gaze aft, over the sea.

These premium features are matched by various storage solutions for both entertainment and utility purposes. That the Grady White team uses their boats and constantly improves upon them is evident.

Midship, by the port side, the beamy 415 has one of the most versatile and well-designed seating areas. It has a full-height wrap-around windshield for a climate-controlled interior space, offering optimal visibility and comfort.

The high-low table can be adjusted for U-shaped seating or as a lounge pad.

When not cruising, the seating area has such roomy headspace with a huge, retractable sunroof that makes for an appealing social area for a four-person booth, away from any (delightful) din caused by kids swimming.

It's also possible to enclose the helm and seating area for maximum comfort when outside conditions get too fresh and harried by wind and rain.

Advanced Technology and Design

Staying by the helm, the Freedom 415 is equipped with the latest in marine technology, including Yamaha's Helm Master X for full maneuverability, a SeaKeeper 6 Gyro Stabilizer as a standard feature, and a Panda Fisher diesel generator for extended trips without the need for shore power.

Two fully electrically adjustable and independent seats for the captain and navigator have flip-up bolsters and flip-up armrests to match body size and driving demands. Surrounded by virtually all glass, visibility is amazing here.

The Helm Master includes joystick control, bow thruster, and huge side windows to make for easy docking maneuverability. Windows

The boat's design incorporates traditional elements with modern accents. The fine finish around the twin displays (either 19" or 22" inch Multi-display Garmins) with carbon fiber panels illustrates how practical engineering meets elegant design.

Grady White's SeaV2 hull with SeaKeeper 6 on a 13'8 beam makes for a very stable experience. That includes both when underway and while fishing, should some passengers require it. Automatically adjusting transoms keep the boat level

Spacious Interior and Accommodations

Between the two consoles, but before moving up to the bow seating, are two separate interior spaces with sliding doors for easy access and privacy. The starboard-side cabin features a dedicated double aft berth and a convertible forward berth, with appointments reminiscent of a high-end beach house, including solid oak cabinetry and woven seagrass materials.

Climate control provides additional comfort for escaping the day's heat or sleeping up to four overnight or during a weekend.

The starboard side houses a dedicated head compartment with high-end finishes, ensuring comfort and elegance. We found the small details in the head illustrative of the approach to aesthetical elegance found throughout the Freedom 415 (and much of the Grady White line).

Bow Area and Entertainment Space

The bow area of the Freedom 415 epitomizes the essence of a freedom model with its spacious and versatile layout.

The boat also features an easy-up bow shade and a large hardtop with extendable sun shade, providing over 41 feet of shaded entertaining space.

A Coastal Cruising Cabana

The Grady White Freedom 415 is more than a power boat. It's a floating refuge from the world's malaise. 40 square meters of space that blend performance, safety, and luxury seamlessly.

Whether for fishing, entertaining, or simply enjoying a day on the water, the Freedom 415 promises a comfortable and relaxing experience. With its impeccable design and features, it sets a new standard for what a dual console boat can be, making it an excellent choice for boating enthusiasts seeking the pinnacle of maritime craftsmanship.
