GRADY-WHITE FREEDOM 415

Grady-White's Freedom 415 ranks as the largest dual-console boat built. It offers boat buyers a top-notch sport-fishing experience while also providing luxury, style and comfort.

As a Grady-White, it's built for offshore waters and, in fact, is in many ways modeled after the vaunted Canyon 456—a truly awesome bluewater competitor.

Providing cruising comforts, the Freedom 415 comes with helm air conditioning, as well as electronically operated tables that raise and lower as needed. An entertainment tour-de-force, the wet bar boasts an electrically retracting storage door and indirect lighting. Topped with stylish Dekton sintered stone, this wet bar doubles as a bait-prep station when needed.

Belowdecks, find cabins with stylish details:

portside with berths, table, microwave and TV; to starboard, a head, sink and shower—all of which make this boat a great family weekender.

Powered by quadruple Yamaha 450 XTO Offshore outboards, the Freedom 415 exceeds 60 mph at wide-open throttle. It runs on Grady's exclusive SeaV2 hull, and a Seakeeper 6 gyrostabilizer is standard for this model.
