GRADY-WHITE'S RUGGEDLY luxurious Canyon 386 combines the celebrated SeaV² hull with top-of-the-line features to deliver the ultimate boat. With a perfect balance of fishability and noteworthy cruising features, the 386 design results in a versatile boat packed with style, performance and more creature comforts than other center consoles of its size.

The Canyon 386 perfectly melds some of the best design features of Grady-White's flagship Canyon 456 with the historic success of the Canyon 376 to deliver the highest in boating satisfaction. An extra-wide beam (13 feet, 2 inches) yields added square footage resulting in abundant space for four adjustable deluxe helm chairs under the AV² hardtop and behind the full-height wraparound windshield — providing all-day comfort and protection from the elements. The ergonomic design of the sleek black helm boasts a large flush-mount electronics area, push-button switches and full maneuverability controls for the triple Yamaha 450 XTO engines.

The wider beam also creates a spacious console interior, including a full galley with a microwave, a cherry dinette table that converts into a berth, and a separate enclosed head with a sink, porcelain head and a stand-up shower. Other notable features of the console include air conditioning, natural lighting, plenty of storage, including space for eight rods, and a standard 24-inch TV. Whether overnighting at the canyons or enjoying a romantic weekend to a favorite seaside town, the 386 is perfectly situated for comfort.

Anglers will appreciate the sizable cockpit with a 291-quart insulated refrigerator/freezer fishbox, dual 35-gallon livewells, and a lean bar with rod holders, knife and plier holders, and a Corian countertop. When cruising is the activity of choice, the rigging station easily converts into an entertainment zone, complete with a freshwater sink and an optional grill. The bow also lends itself to hosting a crowd with a plush console lounge with folding armrests, electromechanically adjustable backrests on the port and starboard seats, a sizeable casting platform with cushions, and an optional electrically adjustable table. Additional standard features that make this boat a standout include a Seakeeper 4.5 gyro stabilizer and Sureshade.

When it comes to rugged durability and luxury, the 386 proves you really can have it all!
