by Partner Content November 1, 2024

Established in 1959 in Greenville, North Carolina, Grady-White earned a legendary reputation for building ruggedly elegant coastal fishing boats, developing great craftsmen, and nurturing strong customer relationships. Owner, Eddie Smith, set the bar high when he purchased the company in 1968 and under the leadership of President Kris Carroll, the Grady-White team has achieved uncompromising quality through exceptional attention to detail. This results in a company that embodies integrity, pride in work well done, and care for customers and community.

There are many reasons to purchase a Grady-White boat including company heritage, innovative design, exceptional attention to detail, and award-winning performance. Add to that the highest level of customer satisfaction in the boating industry and you'll love living the Grady Life. Learn more about the company's philosophy and why it makes a Grady-White boat the top choice for boat ownership.

Grady-White Canyon 306

Grady-White's Canyon 306 has been an impressive standout for years with its fishing-focused layout, sleek lines, and offshore performance. Now, this customer favorite is even better with the addition of a new glass windshield that is completely integrated into the T-top structure, resulting in a stronger surface and more stylish appearance. An updated helm with an enhanced ergonomic design allows the electronics to be installed closer to the captain's line of sight. With a helm that provides ample space for a multitude of electronics, the 306 combines the ultimate in fishability with the highest level of customer satisfaction. Whether you're headed offshore for a day of fishing, anchoring out with friends, or cruising the waterfront, this large center console is a family pleaser!
