Where Luxury and Fishability Meet

You will be amazed at the big-boat features on this 33-foot dual console Grady-White. Climb aboard with veteran boat reviewer, marine reporter, and fisherman, Randy Vance, as he demonstrates the performance, luxury, fishability, and element of style found on the new Freedom 345.

Exceptional Attention to Detail in Action

From luxurious features to the smallest convenience items, Grady-White leaves no detail untouched. For almost seven decades, we've built a reputation for exceptional attention to detail, and this handy phone charger—perfectly placed at the helm—is just one of many examples of how our team consistently delivers the ultimate boating experience.

Let's See Your Grady Life!

We love getting photos of your children, grandchildren, and nieces and nephews too, and we want to share your photos with the whole Grady Life family on our social media channels, our website, and in our newsletters. Please note: we will only show young children on the water who are wearing proper Personal Flotation Devices (PFDs). Now is a great time of year to check all your boat's safety equipment including those PFDs. Make sure you have enough for your vessel, the inflation devices are in good working order (where applicable), and everyone—including the kids—has the right size PFD. Wishing you all lots of happy, fun, and safe days on the water!

New Feature on the Canyon 386

Grady-White is known for our dedication to customer satisfaction. That starts with listening to customers' desires and needs, then implementing those requests into the boats' design. The new aft facing mezzanine seat option on the Canyon 386 is a shining example. After speaking with customers, the design team went to work developing this new seating option, and it's a HIT! Among the many benefits is more seating in a position that allows anglers to sit comfortably with great visibility of the lines in the water—all without sacrificing space or comfort at the helm and in the cockpit.
